Cathartic Pills.

Few articles of Medicine have been offered to the public that, would perfectly answer the purpose of a Cathartic, and at the same time be safe to use. Unacquainted with the virtues which surpass in curative power all other medicines, and that they win universal esteem of all men. They are safe and powerful in cure. Their peculiar effect is that they act vitalities of the body, cleansing all the organs, purify the blood, and expel from it the foul humors which impair the health and cause sluggish or disordered action and impart healthy action to the whole system. Not only do they cure complaints of every body but also diseases that have baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians. While they produce powerful effects, the dose is diminished down, the pills may be employed for children. They are a safe amusement to take and being entirely free from any risk of harm. Cures may be relied upon where they not established position and character by the truth. Many eminent men lend their names to certify to the virtues of my remedies, while others, sensible of their conviction that the public immediately to the relief of my

I am pleased to furnish gratis my American directions for their use and a list of the following complaints — Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Pain from a foul Stomach, Nausea, Pain of the Bowels and Pain in the Back, Loss of Appetite, all Blood Diseases which requires an evacuation of Evil. They also, by purifying the system, cure many who will not be supposed they could be cured of Blindness, Neuralgia and many Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, a host of complaints arising from a sickly obstruction of its functions.

CHAPTER I
AN INTERRUPTED WEDDING

It was the first of May, the marriage day of the Viscount Montressor of Montressor Castle, Dorsetshire, and Estelle, only daughter and heiress of Sir Park Morcille, Hyde Hall, Devonshire

A glorious morning! the cloudless, blue sky smiled down on the green hills and dewy dales and deep woods of Devon, and the park around the Hall was all alive and musical, with the joyful songs of birds, and the merry laughter of young men and maidens gathering to celebrate their May-day festival, and to do honor to the marriage of their landlord's daughter

The elm shaded, winding, avenue that led from the highway to the house, was arched at each terminus by a mammoth wreath of flowers, and many were the carriages that passed under them, on their way to assist at the wedding, and these contained only the bridesmaids, and the nearest friends and relatives of the family, whose relationship or position gave them the right to attend the bride to church—for a still more numerous party had been invited to meet her at the altar The villagers and tenants, grouped about under the shade of the great old trees, or wandering over the greensward on either side the avenue, watched these equipages as they rolled on, commenting as usual on such occasions

"Oh—dear me! the weddingers won't pass till nearly twelve! and here we are to wait two mortal hours!" said a young girl to the game keeper

"Hush! my darling look, here comes his Lordship's carriage, itself, just as sure as you're the prettiest lass in the country"

It was Lord Montressor's carriage

Early that morning a note from his affianced bride had been put in his hands summoning him to a private conference with her at the Hall, before they should proceed to the church Surprised, and filled with vague uneasiness, his lordship lost no time in obeying the behests of her ladyship, and in pursuing, I must say to you—but, though I go hence, I shall not go out of the reach of your friends, I shall never address another woman, so if ever in the course of future weeks, or months or years, however long, you may think proper to review the decision of this evening, Stella, I implore you to let me know! Write but one word

Come, and I will return to lay an unchanged heart at your feet

Estelle was weeping too bitterly to reply

"Stella! will you promise to do this?"

"Lord Montressor, dear and dear sir friend! do not seek to bind yourself to one who can give you nothing in return! Try to think of the melancholy girl you have pitied and loved—only as a shadow that will for a moment across the sunshine of your path and then passed away forever and so forget her!

"Stella! I have pleaded my honor never to renew this suit, unless you reverse in my favor the sentence you have pronounced upon it, but, inspired by the deep and deathless love I bear you, and hoping against hope, I feel impelled to implore her releasing you, that, in the event of a favorable change of sentiment or purpose towards me, you will not hesitate to give me leave to return Stella, will you promise me so much as that

"Nobler hearted than I have in the world! how gladly would I promise, but I must not, Montressor Were I to do so you would feel bound to wait the changes of my mood, and so, for a most undeserving love, might miss, in some noble woman's affections, the happiness in store for you!

"Stelle, will you raise your sweet mournful eyes to mine, one moment, that you may read my soul while I speak?

Estelle lifted her dark orbs to meet the clear, pure, blue eyes bent with so much love and candor upon hers, and read the deep unchanging truth of the constancy of his soul as he said—

"Stella, in the presence of the heart searching God who sees and hears me, I assure you that I shall never love another woman as I love you, and, therefore, of course, can never wed another, so that whether you give me this slightest of hopes or not, I am equally and forever bound! Now will you promise, Stella? Remember, it is only to let me know in case of a change in your sentiments

For an instant the light of an unutterable love and joy broke on her beautiful, dark face and her smiling lips parted to speak—when—as if a sudden memory and warning had gripped her very heart—she uttered a low sharp cry, turned paler than before, and then said—

"No! no! my Lord! Stella cannot even give you that! She is poorer than the poorest, in gifts to you! She can only pray that you may forget her and be happy."

He looked profoundly disappointed and troubled. But soon mastering his despondency he said hopefully—

"Well, dearest Stella, although you reject me without apparent reason, and refuse to give me the slightest promise or the most distant hope, yet I repeat—should you in the long future, change your purpose and write me one word—"Come, I will hasten to lay at your feet an unchanged heart Good bye! God be with you! and raising her hand, he bowed over it, pressed it to his lips, turned and left the room

Some moments after, Lady Morcille who came to seek and congratulate her daughter upon what she imagined to be the only possible result of the interview—found Estelle lying in a swoon upon the floor It was followed by a long and terrible illness terminating in a tediously protracted convalescence—The town season was at hand before Estelle was able to re-enter society

They went up to London, and once more the star of beauty arose upon its world And though the cloud upon her life settled darker and heavier day by day she was more followed, flattered and courted than before

Thus three years had passed away, when one morning, while the family there occupying their town house in Berkley Square, were seated at a late breakfast and Sir Parke was engaged in reading aloud from the London Times an account of the sinking of the French ship—Le Due D Anjou—wrecked off the coast of Algiers—Estelle uttered a low cry, and sank fainting from her seat

The attack was not, as the other had been, followed by illness on the contrary, from that day, the cloud seemed lifted from her head, and even those who had marked and noted her face in its shadow, were enchanted to see how brilliant was her beauty in its sunshine! Her health and spirits gradually improved, yet as the anniversary of this fearful day drew near, Estelle astonished her friends by suddenly in the beginning of the London season, returning to her father's country seat where she remained in strict seclusion from the world for eighteen months

At the end of this period Lord Montressor, who had never left England or lost track of his beloved Stella, and who was now staying at his estate in Devonshire was one morning at breakfast when the morning mail was brought him Among a score of letters that attracted his attention was a dainty white envelope superscribed in a delicate hand writing He took that up first and opened it—it contained but one word—COME

The heart of an affectionate lover like his knew Only too well what, pained by hope fully years of constant waiting, it had received it! The key to heaven in the hero's sonnet and then pushing all the other letters unopened aside, he sprung up and for his valet and ordered his valise packed and horses put to the carriage

In twenty minutes more he had reached the railway station just as the cars were about to depart, and in three hours he was at Hyde Hall and standing in the presence of Estelle—she looking so beautiful in her loveliness

With the old courtly air and grace of devotion he dropped at once upon his knee, and raised her hand to his lips—

"For twelve years I have hoped for and waited for one word from you, and it has come beloved, you have written—"Come" and I am at your feet as I said, with an undivided heart

But, alas! said deeply hurting, while she held the hand he had raised to his lips, "I may have not a moment to stay I left town but four years I have loved you more than woman's tongue may tell—and never more than at the hour when we bade farewell, and I thought forever

I know it beloved! knew it then knew it always I never doubted it Could I be deceived in the core heart of the woman I loved No and it was the secret of my patience! but such, such is his fate on the still by her side

"And yet you never injured and do not even now inquire, why without explanation and without help I sent you from my presence and why now without apparent reason I summon you to me!" she said, in a tone of the deepest sadness, looking up in the beautiful face

"My own beloved were I deserving your love No and without explanation you to do so shall you give him to me I have full confidence in my beautiful Stella "Confidence! Oh my God she exclaimed in a low, deep, thrilling voice

Why, what is the matter dear st

She looked up suddenly, as the words of love breathing like sunlight over her dark face and said—

"Nothing, nothing my lord, but that all your thoughts and feelings are so elevated beyond your poor Estelle's And yet she would almost choose it so, for could she be an angel she would wish to be some thing far higher—a god

Sweet enthusiast! I can detect your motive for the world and its people will despise your love but an idolater, worship only God, my Stella

Such was their meeting!

Yet occasionally through all their interview a sudden shadow, like the reflection of a painful thought would fall upon her bright face and then pass as it came

They were engaged and within a few days the marriage was announced to take place on the first of May

But it was observed by the nearest friends of the bride that from the day of her betrothal her spirits had been marked by the strangest dejection Sometimes while in full dress for dinner and with a most religious joy shining on her face as it were on seeing a messenger of heaven bring her a letter she would suddenly, as if overcome by exhaustion, throw herself upon a sofa and weep bitterly Lord Montressor observed with the deepest interest the uncertain moods of his betrothed, but with that high toned sentiments that distinguished him refrained from inquiring, and awaited her voluntary revelations

At last the first of May the marriage day, upon which I have presented the parties to the reader, arrived and the hour too, as I said, were gathered in the Hall or at the church to do honor to the solemnities

And the expectant bride, in her bridal robes and veil, waited within her boudoir the arrival of the bridegroom, whom she had summoned to a private interview before they should proceed to the church She had not long to wait He who quickly responded to her slightest inclination, immediately obeyed her call

Yet when she heard his firm, elastic step approaching,

"Now God have mercy on me! she prayed and covered her face with her hands.

"My beautiful Stella? I am here, you perceive, by your commands!

She dropped her hands, and revealing a face pale with misery, spoke in a thrilling, deep, unnatural tone—

"You are here by my supplication, my lord! I have no right to command.

"We will waive that! What is your will, my dearest Stella?"

"My prayer, my lord—is first, for your forgiveness."

"Forgiveness!"—my Stella?"

"Ay! my dear lord! you see before you a penitent and a suppliant, who may soon be something far more wretched!"

"My Stella! what mean you?"

"Come to the window, Lord Montressor!" she said, rising and preceding him. "Look out," she continued, putting aside the rose-colored hangings, and revealing a view of the park below, alive with its restless multitude. "What are all these people waiting for, my lord?"

"What are they waiting for, my Stella?—for that, for which I also wait, with how much more impatience!" he answered, while a deep flush of love and joy, for an instant, supplanted the anxiety on his face.

"They wait to see a bride pass, where a bride may never go!" she said, in a solemn voice.

"Stella! great Heaven! what say you?" he exclaimed, gazing on her with profound astonishment.

"That the bride they expect, is unworthy to stand before God's holy altar beside Lord Montressor!"

"Unworthy Stella! You!"

"Most unworthy, my lord!" she said dropping her arms, and dropping her head in an attitude of the deepest misery. "I should have made this confession long ago, Lord Montressor, but I have deceived you—I have deceived you."

"In what respect Stella? My God! It can not be! No, it cannot be! that while betrothed to me, you do not love me!"

"Not love you! Oh! my dear lord!" she murmured, in a voice of thrilling tenderness that carried conviction of her truth to his deepest heart.

"What mean you then, dearest one? if indeed you return my deep love."

"Oh! I do, I do, Montressor, whatever happens—wherever you go, take that assurance with you! I love you, my lord! shall ever love you, even though even after what I shall have told you, you repulse and hate me, and go to our friends and say,—'That woman whom I was about to wed, is but a whited sepulchre whom I have proved and whom I now reject'—and so leave me to the scorn of men, still I say—ever shall say—I love you, Lord Montressor! I love you, and the consciousness of being worthy of your love is the bitterest element in my punishment," she said in a voice of such profound misery, that Lord Montressor could scarcely continue to believe her agitation unfounded or exaggerated.

He dropped upon a seat, and sitting still and white as a carved image of stone gazed up on her, waiting her further communications.

The above is all of this beautiful and highly interesting story that will be published in our columns. We give this as a sample. The continuation of it can be found only in the New York Ledger, the great family weekly paper, for which the most popular writers in the country contribute, and which can be found at all the stores throughout the city and country, where papers are sold. Remember to ask for the New York Ledger of May 30 and in it you will get the continuation of the story from where it leaves off here. If you cannot get a copy at any news office, the publisher of the Ledger will mail you a copy on receipt of five cents. Fanny Fern writes only for the New York Ledger, Sylvanus Cobb Jr., writes only for it, Emerson Bennet writes only for it, and nearly all the eminent writers in the country, such as Mrs. Sigourney, Mrs Emma D E N Southworth, and Alice Carey, contribute regularly to its columns. Mrs Southworth writes for no other paper hereafter. Geo D Prentice Esq of the Louisville Journal, prepares the Wit and Humor Department in the Ledger. It is mailed to subscribers at $2 a year, or two copies for $3. Address Robert Bonner, publisher, 44 Ann street, New York. It is the handsomest and best family paper in the country, elegantly illustrated and characterized by a high moral tone.

THE PRICE OF DIAMONDS. A set of diamonds, of anything but extravagant beauty, displayed in the window of a fashionable jeweler in Chestnut street labeled "price $6000," discloses the fact that the value of these gems has recently been materially advanced. We are informed that the increase will amount to at least 25 per cent. A state of things brought about by the quiescent state of Europe somewhat aided by the numerous alliances between titled persons, whose agents purchase the finest stones in the various markets in order to invest the bridal trosseaux with fitting splendor. The appearance of such a party in Paris, commissioned to procure a jewelled outfit for the daughter of the Sultan, who is about to wed a son of the Viceroy of Egypt, is said to have greatly increased the buoyancy of the diamond market, while the numbers of the nobility who always stand prepared in periods of public tranquility to purchase ones of extraordinary size, have assisted materially in producing the present result. Some of the handsomest fortunes realized during the past ten years, were made by capitalists who bought up the finer gems offered in this market and Europe during the Turkish war, and resold them to great advantage when public confidence became restored upon the establishment of peace. In fact, just at present, diamonds are diamonds, and those who would possess them must pay their uttermost value. Discolored or "off colored" stones may be obtained about as cheaply as ever, but for the pure white, scintillating gem, sparkling like a dew drop in the morning sun, no trifling equivalent is required.—English paper.

ORIGIN OF THE PENNY POSTAGE SYSTEM.—A traveller sauntering through the Lake district some years ago, arrived at a small public house just as the postman stopped to deliver a letter. A young girl came out to receive it. She took it in her hand and turned it over and over, and asked the charge. It was a large sum—no less than a shilling. Sighing heavily, she observed that it came from her brother, but that she was too poor to take it, and she returned it to the postman accordingly. The traveller was a man of kindness as well as observation, he offered to pay the postage himself, and, in spite of more reluctance on the girl's part than he could understand, he did pay it, and gave the girl her letter. No sooner however, was the postman's back turned than she confessed that the proceeding had been concerted between her brother and herself, that the letter was empty, that certain signs on the direction conveyed all that she wanted to know, and as neither of them could afford to pay postage, they had devised this method of franking the intelligence desired. The traveller pursued his journey, and as he plodded over the Cumberland falls, he mused upon the badness of a system that drove people to such straits for the means of correspondence, and defeated its own object all the time. With most, such musings would have ended before the close of the hour, but "this man's name was Rowland Hill, and it was from this incident, and these reflections, that the whole scheme of penny postage was derived.

A woman named Honora Healy, was tried in Halifax, on the 13th inst., for the murder of Cornelius Murphy, and the jury brought in the following extraordinary verdict, which was duly recorded: "Guilty of murder, with a recommendation to mercy, as there is no evidence to show malice aforethought and premeditation."

A bald eagle was shot at the mouth of Alder Creek, Vt., on the 6th inst., which measured seven feet two inches from tip to tip. One quill was over eighteen inches long.

Democratic Reverence for Law.

When the black laws of the bogus Legislature of Kansas are in question—or a fugitive slave law which denies the right of habeas corpus and the trial by jury—"democratic" speakers and papers are loud-mouthed in their reverence for law,—whether it be good or bad, constitutional or unconstitutional. They say the laws must be obeyed, and submitted to quietly and peaceably, until either repealed or set aside by the proper tribunals. This is the doctrine preached to the free State men of Kansas, upon whom slavery has been forced by the most violent, bold and impudent usurpation which has been known in the present century.

The bogus laws are for the benefit of slavery, and democracy says they must be obeyed, notwithstanding the free State men declare them to be utterly invalid, as being passed by an incompetent body of men. Thus we see, that when the interests of slavery and the probable advancement of the democratic party seem to demand it, these modern democrats are the severe guardians of "law and order."

But suppose the case changed—and that law and order are apparently adverse to democracy. How is it then? Let the state of things in New York city answer. The new law made by the Legislature to give the city what it never has had before, an effective police, under which the lives and property of strangers and citizens may be reasonably secure—this law is resisted by the democracy because it takes the appointment of Police Commissioners out of their hands, and democratic speakers openly recommend democratic rowdies and short-boys to resist the execution of the laws, forcibly, and democratic presses applaud the meetings and the speakers. This is a good illustration of the sincerity of their devotion to law and order.

We ask attention to the following account of one of the recent anti-law meetings in that city.

THE REVOLUTIONARY MEETING IN NEW YORK deserves more attention than it has received out of the city. It was nothing less than a bold recommendation of forcible resistance to law and the whole proceeding demands the more consideration from the fact that it was, throughout, under the direction of officers of the federal government. Mr Buchanan's new Marshal, Capt. Rynders, called the meeting to order, John Kelly, a Democratic member of Congress, presided. John Cochrane, late Naval officer, and just elected to Congress, was the most violent speaker, and all the other speakers, but one, were Custom House officers.—The speeches were addressed to the most inflammable population in the whole country, at a time when the high price of provisions and the difficulty of obtaining employment added to the spirit of recklessness that always pervades the lower classes of New York. The following is a specimen of the appeal made to the collected rowdyism of that great city.

"Resist this oppression, [cheers.] Resist the despotism of infamous law—a despotism as ruinous in its consequences as this anarchy itself. And, if the only preventive of anarchy is law, the only remedy for oppressive law is revolution! Revolution at the ballot box, if it may be—at all events, revolution—peaceful or violent, unarmed or armed! (Immense cheering.) I recommend it. That is the higher law. That is the law of the people.

"The law of the people is the voice of God. It will assert itself. It shall be heard, or you are slaves. Now choose the alternative. [A voice 'the knife!'] Choose to submit tamely, without resistance, or resist peaceably if it may be, but violently if must be! Choose you resistance on the one side, or degradation on the other! [Loud cheers.] That is the issue, and you have to determine it here to-night."

This was spoken by a man who has held an important office under the general government, and who has just been elected to Congress.—This was the doctrine that received the countenance of other high federal officers, including the one who is entrusted with the chief executive administration of the judiciary in the most important district in the country. And these are the sentiments that a paper claiming to be of the most conservative character, and rebuking in the loftiest manner the least resistance to any of the enactments intended to favor slavery, endorses in the following style. We quote from the Journal of Commerce.

"The people have spoken. The Park meeting last evening was a rouser. It is one of many evidences of the almost unanimous indignation of our citizens at the attempt of Black Republicanism to deprive them of the right of self government."

And what makes the pretext for all this so much lighter is, that there is nothing really oppressive in the laws so heartily denounced, even according to the showing of the orators. There is certainly nothing of that intolerably oppressive character that it cannot be borne till the next meeting of the Legislature, and then there will be a legal and peaceful remedy. The worst evil will be that, till that time, valuable patronage will be in the hands of the Republicans instead of the Democrats, and that some restriction may possibly be placed on the sale of rum. And for this the people are told, by men high in authority, that it is their right and their duty to resort to the last remedy—revolution, and the worst classes of the population are inflamed with the story of imaginary wrongs, and are urged to take into their own hands the redress of their grievances. And the papers that call it treason to question the policy or the constitutionality of other laws, even although rendering full obedience to them, say, "The people have spoken."—Providence Journal.

Among the passengers by the Asia was a police officer from Cologne in pursuit of a merchant who, having defrauded the banks in Cologne and Frankfort on the Main, of large sums of money, by means of forged bills, fled to the United States, and is now probably in Canada.

REPAIRS NEEDED UPON UNCLE SAM'S PROPERTY. The southern approach to the Custom House in this city is in a precarious condition, and needs immediate attention. On the east side it has sunk from the top so that the pavement is eighteen inches below the curb stone, and the wall has been forced out at the centre full two feet from its perpendicular line. The pavement has sunk more than a foot this spring, and the wall has been forced out to a corresponding extent, and threatens to fall into the stream very speedily, unless it is taken down. The trouble has been caused by the action of the frost upon the earth with which the filling was made between the walls.

Collector Leavitt has made the proper representations to the department at Washington, and as there is an unexpended balance on hand of the last appropriation, we may expect the necessary repairs to be made during the summer. The sooner the thing is done the better for Uncle Sam's pocket,—on the principle that "a stitch in time saves nine." The work originally cost about $15,000, and ought to stand better than it does.

Major Ben McCulloch has declined the appointment of Governor of Utah, and the office has been offered to a western man, whose name is not yet made public. It is said the U S government will send troops to Utah in considerable numbers, to protect the Courts and enforce obedience to the U. S. laws. This should be done—but the nuisance and the danger will never be abated until polygamy be prohibited and rooted out. This the Republican party has declared itself in favor of doing—but the democracy say the peculiar institutions of any people must be let alone.

MASONIC JOURNAL.—This paper, formerly published at Brunswick, has been removed to Haverhill, Mass. It is still published and edited by G W Chase, Esq. The last number contains the proceedings of the Grand Lodge, Chapter Council and Encampment of this State at their recent session in Portland. The order appears to be in a most flourishing condition.

Forty of the prisoners who tried to escape from Sing Sing were subjected to the shower bath punishment; and in addition to the showering, the ringleaders were placed upon the bread and water diet, in a dark cell or dungeon. Dunn, the ringleader, received the infliction twice with the Croton hose full in his face.

GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK for June is a beautiful number for the opening of Summer. "The Nearest Way in Summer Time" is the title of an exquisite engraving of a sylvan scene. The colored fashion plates are unrivalled, and the patterns for embroidery &c, numerous and very interesting to the ladies. The stories and sketches are attractive.

A large business firm of Havana, on the 4th inst., purchased from a certain wealthy lady of the Island two immense sugar establishments, the price of which was $2 000 000, $300 000 cash down, and the rest in three payments of $400,000 each.

A couple of quarrelsome youngsters of seventy or thereabouts, had a regular fight the other day, at West Dennis, in consequence of a difference about a fence.

HEAVY SQUALL AT THE SOUTH. A paper printed at Newburg S C called the "Rising Sun"—(a cotemporary suggests Midnight Gun as an amendment) gives the following intelligence of a terrific time coming down South.

"Clouds and darkness, threatening clouds, ominous darkness, gather around our political future. A night, gloomy and terrible, sets in upon us. We are drifting slowly, silently, into an ocean of storms, furious whirlwinds, quicksands, and fearful whirlpools. A solemn silence prevails—'tis the precursor of a horrible tempest. Hark! the low muttering rumbling of distant thunder breaks upon the stillness. Fitful flashes reveal the sullen gloom. The lurid air is heavy and chill. The storm approaches—nearer and nearer it comes, louder and more loud it howls. Man the sails—all hands to their posts. The South expects every man to do his duty. Life and death, honor and liberty are involved. Let each heart be firm, each nerve steady. The conflict will be fierce as hate and malice can make it—Stand firm. Hark! what crash was that? Kansas is gone! List! a triumphant shout from the spirits of the storm! Missouri is yielding. How fierce the blasts, how lurid the lightning! How terrible the tempest, sea and heaven are commingled! Howls horrible, yells terrific, tear our ears! Virginia is assailed. Gloomy, dark, terrible howls the tempest! Watchman, what of the night? All is dark! no dawn appears."

A Rockland paper, speaking of the depression of business in that city, gives the price of lime, and value of tonnage, as compared with other years:—In 1853 and '54, lime averaged upon the wharf, 80 cents per cask, and shipping was worth per ton more than $50. In 1855 and '56, lime averaged only 70 cents per cask, upon the wharf, and the actual value of shipping was below $50 per ton. But rating the value of vessels the same in the last two years as in the first two, the transactions in lime business and ship-building in 1855 and '56 are less by $1,274,100 than in 1853 and '54. The people of Rockland ask for but one year of …

DAY-LIGHT REFLECTORS.—This is an invention of great usefulness in dark stores and basements. The State of Maine has the following notice of one in use in Portland:

This morning we visited the basement of the large brick store, or warehouse on Commercial street, occupied by Messrs. Charles Rogers & Co., to notice the effect of a day-light reflector. The long, dark, basement is completely transformed into a well lighted room, by simply raising a swinging mirror, having a corrugated face, which, at an angle of 45 degrees, reflects the rays of light thrown upon it from the outside. The broken surface of the mirror prevents the glare of an ordinary reflector.

The simplicity of this invention, and its adaptation to rooms shut out from full daylight, must make it of great economical value. Long rooms, basements, vaults, &c., may, by this method, be made clear as day light. The invention must prove a most valuable one.

The New York Times says:

"On Sunday last Dr. Cheever stated in his pulpit that he had received a letter, signed by sixteen members of his church, including three deacons, requesting him to resign the pastoral charge. This step, which has been some little time in contemplation, was taken in consequence of the dissatisfaction felt by those parties, in common with some other members of the church, at the course lately taken by Dr Cheever, in preaching what they considered to be political sermons—referring, of course, to his discourses previous to the late election, and on the recent decision of the Supreme Court in the Dred Scott case."

A meeting of the church and congregation was held on Monday evening, the result of which was an unanimous vote sustaining Dr Cheever.

HIDE AND LEATHER BUSINESS.—Mr Editor. Hides and leather are rapidly on the decline. The prices have already fallen from four to six cents a pound, and are still on the decline. If the shoe manufacturers will lay aside their tools for sixty days, and turn their attention to farming and cultivating their gardens, and raise all they can for their family use, they will find themselves and families much better off next winter than they will be to continue making shoes at the price leather is selling at now. The industry of Massachusetts has been crammed and borne down, and many of them reduced to poverty by the power that speculators have held over them. Prices have been inflated above their real nature, thereby giving the speculator the entire control over the manufacturer's earnings. Within sixty days I will venture to prophesy that they may resume the shoe manufacturing and purchase sole leather within that time for twenty cents a pound—as good as they paid thirty two for in February. S. Boston Herald.

We think there are to be great crops of wheat in the United States this season. A practical farmer and a careful and accurate observer of the crops from year to year, says that he has recently passed over considerable portions of Floyd, Harrison and Washington counties, Indiana, and everywhere the growing wheat was in excellent condition. Tennessee is rapidly becoming one of the largest wheat growing States in the Union. For several years past large quantities of wheat from this State have been brought to market at New York, in good condition, before the wheat fields of the Northern States were ripe enough for reaping, and it sold so readily and at so high a price that the cultivation has been largely increased.—The Knoxville Whig says there is good prospect of a crop in that State this year which will astonish the natives.—Boston Post.

By the new timber bending process, it is stated that the strength of wood is increased at least seventy five per cent at the point where strength is most required. The curve, moreover, never relaxes. The timber as in the old process, is first subjected to the influence of steam, which softens the whole mass, and puts it in a fit state for the action of a machine.—The principle of bending, as employed in the new application, is based on end pressure which, in condensing and turning at the same time, destroys the capillary tubes by forcing them into each other. These tubes are only of use when the tree is growing, and their amalgamation increases the density of the timber, the pressure being so nicely adjusted that the wood is neither flattened nor spread nor is the outer circumference of the wood expanded, though the inner is contracted.—Post.

ATTEMPT TO ROB THE LIME ROCK BANK.—On Tuesday night, as we are informed by Mr Cushing, clerk of the Daniel Webster, an attempt was made to rob the Lime Rock Bank, at Rockland. The banking room was entered and two of the locks upon the specie safe broken, but the third was either too much, or the miscreants had used up their working season and were obliged to decamp without getting anything for their night's work. The banking house is a building standing alone, and the night being very stormy, favored the attempt. An individual was arrested, and released. He then went on the Daniel Webster to Portland, where he was again arrested, further suspicions being excited and a telegraphic despatch being sent after him.—Journal.

The Herald says editorially, "We learn on reliable authority that the Mormons are about commencing a settlement near Council Bluffs, for an outpost or receiving station. The leading men of the new settlement are said to be Eastern men, who have not been initiated into the real mysteries of Mormonism. It is more than probable that the founding of this settlement is the real cause of Brigham Young's secret expedition to 'somewhere in the North.'"

THE LAW OF MIGHT. A negro entered a store in St Louis, and with a request for change, threw down a $20 gold piece, which went over the counter and fell upon the floor. The man behind the counter refused to return it, and was heard to console himself with the reflection that he could not be convicted on the testimony of a black man.

MONUMENT TO A SLAVE. The students of Howard College, Alabama, on Sunday, the 16th ult., inaugurated a monument to the memory of Harry, a slave of the President of the College, who, when the building burned down in 1855, refused to leave until all the students had been gotten out, and lost his life thereby.

In New York, on Tuesday afternoon, a domestic in the family of Mr Cook, of 126 West 23d street, named Ellen Kelly, 18 years of age, dropped a bottle containing two quarts of cologne upon a grate. The fluid was scattered upon her dress, and she was so burned before the flames were extinguished, as to cause her death in an hour.

A MOUNTAIN OF FLESH. Among the delegates to the Medical Convention, now in session in Philadelphia, is a gallant Bostonian—well known to fame—Dr. John M. Moriarty, physician to Deer Isle Hospital. The weight of his "corporeal" is only 410 pounds! He occupies considerable space upon the Philadelphia sidewalks.

A Wrathy Subject.

The Boston Herald gives the following amusing sketch of a Police Court case in that city.

Thomas Brown came to this country in the steerage of a packet ship which arrived from Liverpool last week, and as he had but a confused idea of the nation which was to receive him as an adopted citizen, his actions when he landed were perfectly free and without restraint. England, he imagined, still held full away over this quarter of the globe, and the only trouble likely to occur was when Indians made a descent upon some unprotected town or city and bore the inhabitants into captivity, or else amused their leisure hours by scalping women and children and dancing "green corn jigs."

It is more than probable that Brown has fallen in with a set of wags since he has been in Boston, who have taken particular pains to get acquainted with his private opinions, and then "sell" him, or in other words "run saws."

Last night Brown was found drunk in the street, and to save his life and benefit the Commonwealth, the officer took him to the Station House, gave him a comfortable lodging, and then in the most friendly manner entered a complaint against him for being intoxicated.

Thomas was not very prepossessing when he was called upon by the amiable clerk of the court to plead guilty or not guilty to the charge.

"My Lud," said Thomas, straightening himself and placing one hand in his bosom, "I am an Hinglish gentleman."

"Do you say guilty or not guilty?" reiterated the clerk, inclined to be slightly irritated.

"Never you mind, young man," replied Thomas, waiving his hand toward the venerable clerk, who was so surprised at the words that he forgot himself and actually smiled—an occurrence that the oldest habitue of the Court room never knew him to be guilty of before.

"My Lud," cried Thomas, fixing his eye on the Judge, "I am an Hinglish gentleman, and wishes to no why the hoshicer took me in charge last night. My Lud if I writes to his Highness, minister at Washington and tells him of this affair, I would not be responsible for the rage of my Lud Palmerston. I'm is friend, and he knows ow to protect the 'onor of us Britons."

"We have no Luds in this country," said the Judge mildly, "but you wish to say whether you are guilty or not, the Court is ready to hear you."

"No Luds in this country, my Lud—no haristocracy, nothing but hingins and bisters.—No vonder you 'ave books ritten about your nation. Vy the last time I dined with my Lud Palmeston ve vere speaking of 'merica and he told me it was just the place for a man of my talent, and I leave a good business to come here to teach you, and vot is the konsequence?"

No one replied excepting an Irish woman, up for being a common drunkard, and as she was dozing and thinking about her sentence, she said

"Six months in the House of Correction."

Thomas looked at the spectators with silent contempt when they laughed, and continued

"I asked for the hoffices when I got 'ere, and a man tells me a collector is wanted in the Custom House. I hoffered to accept the place, but somebody kicks me out of the building.—I was told of a dozen different situations, but when I vent to get 'em I vas laughed at. My Lud, I've been shamefully treated, and I vants justice, or the valls of this 'ere building will shake with Hingland's rage when she 'ears of it. Remember the fate of Sebastopol, and tremble for your 'omes."

The Judge intimated that he was not alarmed, as he knew that the revenue cutter was in port and could afford ample protection to the city against all the fleets which the English would send to revenge his cause.

A fine of $3 and cost was imposed, and as he was being taken down stairs he was begging the officers to let him have pen and paper for the purpose of writing to the Hinglish Minister.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills, will cure Asthma and all of the Disorders of the Chest. Henry Vincent, of Selma Alabama was almost a martyr to asthma for nineteen years, which literally shook him to pieces and made him as thin as a skeleton so that he neither enjoyed rest by night or by day. He tried many things for the cure of this complaint but they did not benefit him. About three months ago he commenced taking Holloway's Pills, and well rubbing the Ointment into the chest night and morning. Immediately he gave these remedies a fair trial he was able to sleep at night. By persevering with them for only seven weeks every symptom of his disorder left him. His friends who have not seen him for some time now hardly know him he has so wonderfully improved.

Holloway's Pills, a most famous Remedy for the cure of Nervousness and General Debility. Jasper M Cann, of Brides st Brooklyn New York was without doubt a severe sufferer from nervous and general debility. The least thing provoked his irritability, put him in a passion and laid him up; this was caused by the bad state of the fluids and though he tried many remedies for this complaint, he was not benefitted. At length he had recourse to Holloway's Pills, which quickly performed their part by removing the injurious fluids from the system, cleared his head restored tone and vigor to the stomach and after five weeks perseverance restored him to the blessings of health.

Gov. Cumming, the Indian Agent for the Mormons, has been ordered, but declined the Governorship of Utah.

DETROIT, May 22.

Further information from the northern part of this State fully confirms the previous reports of destitution existing there.—
Committees for the relief of the sufferers are now at work, and the interior are being freely supplied and forwarded by the Executive Committee of this city.

BARNSTABLE, May 22.

An inquest was held yesterday, by S. Hal-

Mothers' Mothers'! Mothers!!!

ARE YOU TROUBLED WITH YOUR CHILDREN—Don't fail to procure Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it, mothers, it will give rest to yourselves, and relief and health to your infants. We speak what we do know, after long experience, and confidently assert that no mother who once uses this article will be willing to use any other medicine after the first bottle is administered. In fact, no one who has ever given it a fair trial will be induced to dispense with it.
There is not the slightest foundation for any statement of an opposite character. On the contrary, it is the safest, surest and best remedy in the world, in all cases of Dysentery and Diarrhœa in children, whether it arises from teething or from any other cause. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of Curtis & Perkins, New York, is on the outside wrapper. Sold by druggists throughout the world.
Price only 25 cents per bottle.

WEEPING AT THE LUNGS CURED.

SOUTH BOSTON, Aug.—Dear Sir—Having been attacked with a hemorrhage of the lungs, which left me with a troublesome cough and the usual debility consequent upon such attacks, and having cured myself by the use of DR. SAGE'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, I feel it a pleasure and a duty to testify to its merits. My general health is restored, my expectorations is small, but for those who are suffering under pulmonary attacks, I am persuaded that the above is an excellent preparation.
Yours, very truly,
ANNA B. CHILDS, Editor Chicopee Telegraph.

TABLE BUTTER,

VERY NICE, for sale by apl23 THOMAS J. STEWART.

Neutralizing Cordial.

THIS is an invaluable remedy in Diarrhœa, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Summer Complaints of children, &c., &c. When this pigment or coloring matter does out, it leaves the hair hollow, and it becomes gray. To invent a Balm that would produce this pigment has become the study of the proprietor. The discovery of the Alpinas Hair Balm will do it. It will bring the hair to its natural color by making anew the coloring matter in the roots of the hair.
It is a mistaken notion that oil or grease will restore the hair, as nothing can be more injurious. The Alpine Hair Balm will restore the skin and save the hair of those who have been sick with fever or any other disease.

LINCOLN'S

WATER PROOF BLACKING,

AND LEATHER PRESERVATIVE.

Keep your feet dry and you will seldom need a Physician

IS not a truth that when the feet are often wet, it is one of the greatest causes of colds and consumption? It is a truth that when leather is often wet and dried it soon becomes hard stiff, and cracks but when it is properly dressed it is remedied By the application of this preservative, it remains soft, and entirely impervious to water

After being engaged for 25 years in the manufacture of Leather in all its branches, and being often troubled with wet feet myself I was led to experiment on different compositions and found it easy to make it water proof, but at the same time extremely injurious to the leather At last by a chemical process I discovered a preparation which perfectly harmonizes with the astringent properties with which leather is tanned It will not only make leather water proof, but it like wise softens the leather and it will Positively wear twice as long.

I have now used it for three years and a large part of that time have worked in a wet Tannery, with my boots constantly in water, and have not had my feet wet during that time I can therefore in all confidence, recommend it to the public as the best article in the market

American & Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY,

SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

(Late Agent of U S Patent Office Washington under the Act of 1837.)

No. 76 State Street, opposite Kilby St., BOSTON

AFTER an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years continues to secure Patents in the United States, also, in Great Britain France, and other foreign countries Caveats Specifications Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms and with despatch Researches made into American and foreign works to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar Assignments recorded at Washington

This Agency is not only the largest in New England but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere The testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate—The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents These besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors

Testimonials

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents R H EDDY Esq of Boston was at the Patent Office as Solicitor for procuring Patents—I here were few if any, persons acting in that capacity with whom I was more intimately acquainted than with those who conducted it with more skill fidelity and success I regard Mr Eddy as one of the most learned and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they can rely on having a person in every respect and most worthy and in every capacity of putting their applications in a form to secure for them as early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office

EDMUND BURKE

Late Commissioner of Patents

[From the present Commissioner]

August 17 1855—During the time I have held the office of Commissioner of Patents R H Eddy Esq of Boston has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the Office as Solicitor His standing is thoroughly acquainted with the law and the rules of practice of the office I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse CHARLES MASON,
